

As young first generation Christian parents and as a pastor, my wife Dawn and I read all kinds of parenting books with the intent of gaining any insight into the rearing of our own children that we could. We were then introduced to Gary and Anne Marie Ezzo and now 20 years later all four of our children walk and serve the Lord, the oldest three are happily married and the oldest two each are now in the parenting way. A great part of the insights that put our feet on the ground and provided the tools for the rearing of our children came through the relationship and the age-appropriate teaching materials of the Ezzos. Confidence in our approach as parents was gained as we watched the moral virtue reflective of Christ and the social skills that communicated others to be important display themselves in our children. We enjoyed them and so did many others. I am forever grateful for the life changing work and determination to serve the Lord exemplified by Gary and Anne Marie, and the amazing dedication to the calling of helping parents like ourselves who had no models and limited insight into parenting. Even as long term friends I couldn't ask for two more dedicated confidants with whom to interact, as we have, then Gary and Anne Marie. After some 20 years of working with families and 30 years as a pastor, I continue to hold their works with high regard and as some of the most sound Biblical and practical teaching available for parents today.
